YOUR CONVENTION MEDAL

The A.N.A.-Cleveland 73rd Convention medal, which is shown on the cover, borrows special numismatic significance from the fact that its obverse represents a little-known essay or trial design for the United States $20 gold piece.

Augustus Saint-Gaudens' $20 gold design — acclaimed by many as our country's most beautiful coin, with its impressive figure of advancing Liberty bearing torch and olive branch — was actually an alternative to the initial design. The first modelling represented Liberty with wings and a feathered Indian headdress (this latter feature being used subsequently in profile on the $10 gold piece).

The Convention Medal portrays the bust of the first Saint-Gaudens $20 Liberty design, showing the lady in Indian headdress — an appropriate symbol for the A.N.A.

The reverse of the medal exhibits the coat-of-arms of Cleveland, dating from the city's centennial in 1896, but in an artistic setting with supporting figures. The shield displays an anvil and gear, for engineering and manufacturing, anchor, oar and capstan for lake shipping, and a laurel wreath for the city's accomplishments surrounding "1796," the date of the city's founding. The bridge above denotes the cooperation of the eastern and western divisions of the city, separated by the industrial valley of the Cuyahoga River near the center of town, as well as the unusual harmony of the many nations and cultures which go to make up the population of the city.

The factory stacks, opposite church and university towers, as well as the opposing male and female figures, emphasize the amazing "duality" of Cleveland, balancing art and science, manufacturing and commerce, industrial achievement and educational excellence, etc.

INTERNATIONAL NUMISMATIC EXHIBITION

OF THE

AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

AUGUST 19-22, 1964 • SHERATON-CLEVELAND HOTEL

CLEVELAND, OHIO

WELCOME TO

From Your Convention Chairman . . .

A most hearty welcome to the 73rd Annual Convention is extended you on behalf of the several hundred Association officers and committee members who have shared in its preparation.

Members of the host clubs, and of other clubs in the area, have bent every effort to make this 1964 Cleveland meeting — as in 1924, 1934 and 1954 — a most memorable event for you.

All of the ingredients are here: a top-notch bourse, a fine and extensive auction, a most interesting succession of meetings and recreational events, another highlight Educational Forum, and, last but not least, a "feast" of exhibits.

A special debt is owed to the graciousness of foreign mints, governments, museums, medallists and collectors for their contributions to the International Section of the exhibits, and to the diligence of Dr. V. Clain-Stefanelli in bringing these together here for your inspection. These, together with the outstanding displays of over one hundred of our own members, constitute the most extensive exhibition of its kind ever made — a true "World's Fair" of coins — and a reminder, once again, that "Numismatic" is indeed the middle name of our Association!

CONVENTION TOURS

Cleveland has something to offer you no matter what your interests. The convention committee has specifically planned four different tours for your edification and enjoyment. This article will give specific details on these tours and then go on to describe other points of interest in our city.

TERMINAL TOWER OBSERVATION FLOOR

Each badge registration includes a complimentary ticket good from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. daily for the Terminal Tower observation floor.

The Terminal Tower which dominates the Cleveland sky line was completed in 1928 and still is the tallest building in the world outside of New York City. Its 52 floors reach 708 feet into the sky.

The observation floor on the 42nd story is reached by high-speed elevators from the lobby which adjoins our convention hotel. Vari-colored Lake Erie, the incredibly crooked Cuyahoga River, broad and straight Euclid Avenue, the unique lakefront airport, the Stadium, steel mills and refineries, the long and wide bridges over the flats, and various other features of Cleveland may be studied leisurely from a new perspective.

ZOO TOUR

Although the tour is not formally organized, we strongly recommend a visit to Cleveland's popular zoo, which is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily. Zoo admission is 50¢, children under 12 free, except Tuesday when everyone is admitted free. A special bus marked 20C leaves downtown every hour on the hour for the zoo; one way fare is 25¢ for adults, 15¢ for children. You can catch the bus on Public Square just across from Higbee's department store which is on the same corner of the square as our hotel. Because Tuesday is a free day, there is an extra bus which leaves every hour on the half hour. Special tickets are not necessary.

The largest herd of Nubian ibex, a famous pair of rare trumpeter swans and the world's only pair of bongo antelopes inhabit our zoo, one of the largest and most up-to-date in the world. Two interesting features are the trend to close range safe-viewing without bars and fences, and the talking zoo where every exhibit has a recording which the viewer turns on to hear about the particular exhibit in front of him.

BOAT TRIP

A special tour of the lakefront and Cuyahoga River will leave the East 9th Street Pier at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and will return at 11 a.m. It will be necessary to leave the hotel about 8:30 a.m. Tickets at $1.50 per person and full details on getting to the pier will be available at the registration desk.

Lake Erie is Cleveland's greatest single asset, bringing the ships of the world every day to its front door, providing unlimited fresh water for its people and industries, and presenting a long stretch of shoreline for aquatic recreation. Just a few of the main features of this boat trip around the ever fascinating Port of Cleveland are: long low ore boats edging up the kinky Cuyahoga River with ore for the three giant steel mills which hug the river banks, Burke lakefront airport which extends into the lake on man-made land with a mile-long paved runway only minutes from Public Square, foreign ships docking daily from all over the world and bridges of every size and shape.

Cleveland expects two interesting visitors to her port during the convention week. Due about August 19 is the square-rigged sailing ship Christian Radich, a Norwegian training vessel. Due August 21 is a United States Navy submarine, the USS Runner, coming in from its home base on the east coast. This will be in addition to the submarine USS Cod which is docked near East 9th Street Pier permanently and open to visitors.

MUSEUM TOUR

There is a special shuttle service of A.N.A. buses leaving for University Circle, home of the Art Museum, History Museum and Natural Science Museum on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Further details are under General Information — Museum Tour on page ten. If you plan to have lunch in the University Circle area, the only conveniently located food service is in the Art Museum cafeteria.

THE CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART is recognized as one of the great art centers of the world, as indicated by this paragraph in a British art magazine: "It is one of the major museums of the American continent and one of the most important recent assemblies in the world, a superb array of works of art of all types and periods."

Of special interest to the numismatist is the collection of English regal portrait gold, a complete collection of choice ancient Greek coins, boxwood medals of the Renaissance, pre-Columbian South American gold and, for everyone, a world renowned collection of mediæval art, various complete room settings of different eras and cultures and a large collection of armour, etc., in the Armour Court.

THE WESTERN RESERVE HISTORICAL SOCIETY MUSEUM has a great library of 200,000 volumes, particularly rich in nineteenth century Americana. Outstanding collections in various specialized fields, such as local history, genealogy, the War of 1812, Mormonism, the Shakers, and the history of costumes are well known to historians. The Lincoln and Civil War holdings are among the country's finest.

In the museum are fascinating displays of ship models, pioneer tools and implements, a frontier family's log cabin, American period rooms, fine collections of furniture, glassware, pottery, prints, etc., Moses Cleveland's surveying instruments, Amish and Shaker rooms, and many other items of Americana. Signatures of all the Presidents and the signers of the Declaration of Independence are here, and relics from all of America's wars may be seen. An original of Archibald Willard's famous painting "Spirit of '76" hangs in a prominent spot, and a room is devoted to other paintings by this Cleveland artist. The Napoleonic Gallery and collection is perhaps the finest of its kind.

The numismatist will be especially interested in the special exhibit of Ohio bank notes in the Coin Room; a case of Kirtland Banking Society bank notes and supplementary material including the safe used by the Mormon leader Joseph Smith; political badges and other material of the 1864 campaign and the campaigns of other Ohio presidents; four large cases of Washington medals in the Washington and Franklin Room; U. S. decorations of honor in the War Room; an outstanding group of badges of various patriotic groups and societies; and numerous medals included as part of the mementoes of former Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey and as part of the museum's famous Napoleonic collection.

THE NATURAL SCIENCE MUSEUM is located in a new, long and low L-shaped building rising from the side of a steep hill in the University Circle area. Here one may observe and ponder the relics of a million years of life on earth. Here the sciences of astronomy, geology, paleontology, archæology, anatomy and other studies are depicted in graphic clarity. Here may be seen a ceratosaurus and a haplocanthosaurus . . . fossils and rocks . . . meteorites and artifacts . . . Devonian fish and Ohio birds . . . a dunkleosteus and a duck-billed platypus.

Modern, colorful uncluttered displays frame mementoes of distant past ages and dramatize nature studies of all ages. Huge skeletons of extinct pre-historic monsters, fossilized dinosaur footprints, a fine collection of birds, American Indian exhibits, ancient Ohio cultures and a few score other features answer a thousand questions in the viewer's mind, and raise another thousand.

The Mueller Planetarium, the Hanna Star Dome and an observatory bring the wonders of astronomy to the visitor in vivid reality. The unique and sometimes startling display techniques throughout the museum warrant special attention. The collector of odd and curious will find the Indian and Eskimo exhibits of interest.

OTHER POINTS OF INTEREST

This completes the list of specifically organized and/or recommended tours. Other points of interest are:

THE CLEVELAND PUBLIC LIBRARY, with more than three million volumes, is the nation's third largest, topped only by the Library of Congress and the New York Public Library.

Many of its specialized book collections have attained national eminence. The John G. White collection of folklore, orientalia, numismatics and chess is world renowned, with over 100,000 volumes. The collection originated as the personal library of Mr. White, who was an outstanding benefactor of the Library. A few random eye-openers among the many specialized collections in the Library are: more than 130,000 volumes in 29 foreign languages; over 50,000 travel folders and maps are on file in the Library's travel bureau; 40,000 books for sightless readers are in the division for the blind; there are 10,000 volumes on Italian history; and 235 newspapers are received regularly. The Library is located on the north side of Superior Avenue between East 3rd and East 6th Streets, one block east of Public Square.

THE ARCADE, crystal palace of another century has, since 1890, offered pedestrians a warm sheltered passageway between Euclid Avenue and Superior Street, Cleveland's two busiest thoroughfares. Five balcony-corridors, surrounding a central well 400 feet long, look down on the busy walkway. A wide stairway carries the traffic down one flight from the Euclid Avenue to the lower Superior Street level, following the natural slope of the original ground grade as it falls toward the shore of Lake Erie.

Fascinating shop windows line the lower levels, most of them kept by veterans of many years occupancy. A hundred feet above the floor is the glass roof. William Ganson Rose called this the world's finest arcade, with but a single rival, and that in Milan, Italy. The famous architectural marvel was opened with appropriate ceremonies on Memorial Day, 1890. The building, ten stories high at the ends with six arcade levels, cost $876,000 — which seems a bargain.

In 1895 the National Convention of Republican Clubs was held in the Arcade, which was transformed into a huge banquet hall with 2000 diners at the tables on the main level. Thousands more looked on from the upper balconies as Ohio's favorite son, Gov. William McKinley, spoke to the enthusiastic delegates who were to nominate him for the presidency a year later.

The Euclid Avenue entrance was modernized in 1940, and medallion portraits of Stephen V. Harkness and Charles F. Brush, the founders of the Arcade, were mounted at the sides of the new facade. The Arcade has been designated as a Historic American Building by the National Historic Buildings Commission. The Superior Avenue entrance is just across from the Cleveland Public Library.

DUNHAM TAVERN, three miles from downtown on the Buffalo Stage Road, stood as a hospitable hostelry where travelers from the east could stop for refreshment, a meal, or a night's lodging. Rufus Dunham built and operated the tavern on Euclid Street in 1842 — a two-story frame structure which still stands today. Dunham Tavern became a social center as well as a stop-over for transients, with frequent wedding parties, political meetings and festive gatherings enjoyed by the early settlers and the new arrivals to the Western Reserve. Various owners continued to operate it as a public tavern until 1857, when it started a lengthy career as a private residence. The edges of the village and city of Cleveland crept outward decade by decade, overtaking the old tavern and putting the wilderness oasis in the midst of a great city.

Nearly a century after Rufus Dunham opened his luxurious pioneer tavern, a movement was started to restore the old building to its original condition. It was re-opened on January 20, 1941, as the Dunham Tavern Museum, operated by the Cleveland Society of Collectors. Visitors to the pioneer pub may step on the original flooring in the taproom where the worldly tourist once discussed politics with the frontiersman, examine the big

NOTES ON THE BANQUET

GENERAL INFORMATION

Preceding the banquet there will be a dutch treat social hour at 7:15 p.m. The banquet will start promptly at 8:00 p.m., will include the presentation of the Fifty-year Membership Medals and the Howland Wood Award for outstanding exhibit and will be followed by a dancing party and entertainment. These activities will be held in the Gold Room, adjoining Whitehall Room and assembly rooms.

Tickets at $7.50 per person can be obtained at the Registration desk until 12 noon on Saturday. If you want to make up a party (group of ten) you can reserve a table for the group at the desk. There is a special rate for children under ten.

FAVORS

Everyone attending the banquet will receive a key ring containing a new Kennedy half-dollar specially treated to prevent tarnishing or scratching.

Each table will have a centerpiece consisting of a replica of the A.N.A. seal (an ancient lamp atop a book) holding three flags (United States, Ohio and Cleveland). A drawing will be conducted to award the centerpiece to one of the ten guests at each table.

THE OHIO STATE FLAG

This flag was adopted by the General Assembly of Ohio in 1902. The triangles formed by the main lines of the flag represent the hills and valleys of Ohio as typified in the State Seal — the stripes represent the roads and waterways and the circle the original

Northwest Territory around which are thirteen stars symbolic of the original 13 States of the Union. The four stars below the circle, making a total of 17, signifies that Ohio was the 17th State to enter the Union.

The white circle is indicative of the "O" in Ohio and the red within it suggests the buckeye which is native to Ohio and from which the state received the nickname — "Buckeye State".

THE CLEVELAND FLAG

Here is a flag that carries romance in its history. On October 31, 1895 a design was created by an 18-year-old graduate of the Cleveland School of Art — Susie Hepburn, who was a descendant of Seth Pease, one of Moses Cleveland's pioneer surveying party. Her great grandfather was a member of Cleveland's first city council. The flag was a red, white and blue perpendicular tricolor, featuring a Shield on the white background, which was divided by the word "Cleveland" in blue. The lower portion of the Shield, outlined in red, carries the founding date "1796" in red, between crossed stems of laurel wreath in green. The crown portion of this Shield, outlined in blue, carries at the left a spear-and-anvil which indicates "industry" and at the right, a windlass, anchor and oar typify marine interests.

A Plain Dealer reporter Robert K. Beach, delivered a prize of $50.00 to Susie Hepburn, as an award for the design. This meeting touched off a romance between the two and Susie Hepburn's name eventually was changed to Mrs. Robert K. Beach.

EDUCATIONAL FORUM

The annual Educational Forum will be held at eight o'clock Thursday evening, August 20, 1964, in the Gold Room. Four internationally recognized numismatic authorities will participate in this Forum. Seating, lighting, the public address system, and the visual aides have been carefully planned for your enjoyment and comfort. It is suggested that those planning to attend start seating from 7:30 p.m. so that the program may start on schedule.

DR. GEORGE J. FULD

As past president of the Token and Medal Society, editor of the TAMS Journal, and vice president of the Maryland Numismatic Society, Dr. Fuld brings with him to the Forum an extensive background in numismatics.

He joined the A.N.A. in 1951. Specializing in United States medals, tokens, and colonial coins, Dr. Fuld has seen more than 75 of his articles printed in leading numismatic publications, and two of his manuscripts, "Patriotic Civil War Tokens" and "A Guide to Civil War Store Card Tokens," have been published by the Whitman Publishing Company.

The topic of Dr. Fuld's talk is "The Illusion of the 1783 Washington Colonial Coinage."

MR. EDWARD GANS

Few numismatists in the United States compare with Mr. Gans in their knowledge of classical numismatics. As a numismatic scholar Mr. Gans has assembled one of the largest and finest privately owned numismatic libraries in the United States.

Mr. Gans joined the A.N.A. in 1940, and has been an associate life member of the American Numismatic Society since 1938. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the International Association of Professional Numismatists and once served as its vice president. Several articles by Mr. Gans have appeared in The Numismatist, including "Masterpieces of Art on Ancient Coins" (1941) and "Dekadrachms of Syracuse and Their Historical and Mythological Background" (1940).

He will speak on "Reminiscences of an Old Collector."

MR. FELIX SCHLAG

Although not a numismatist in the usual sense, Mr. Schlag earned a special place for himself in numismatics more than twenty-five years ago when he submitted the winning models in the Jefferson nickel design competition.

He was born in Frankfurt am Main, Germany, and acquired experience in sculpture by working in his father's studio. He entered the Academy of Fine Arts in Munich, served in World War I, and was wounded in action.

In 1929 Mr. Schlag came to the United States, receiving citizenship in 1938. It was in that year, too, that he entered the Jefferson nickel competition and won over about 400 other artists. Mr. Schlag will speak on the Jefferson nickel competition and his models for it.

MISS EVA ADAMS

In view of the news-making events at the Bureau of the Mint in recent months, it is both timely and fortunate that Miss Eva Adams, the Director of the Mint, will participate in the A.N.A. Educational Forum. Miss Adams is a graduate of the University of Nevada, holds a Master's degree in English from Columbia University, and received her L.B. degree at the Washington College of Law of American University and her Master's degree in Law from George Washington University.

In 1940 Miss Adams became administrative assistant to Senator Pat McCarran. In October of 1961, Miss Adams was appointed Director of the Mint by President Kennedy.

The topic of Miss Adams' speech at the Educational Forum will be "The Changing Dimes."

Mr. Charles R. Hoskins, Assistant to the Director of the Money Museum of the National Bank of Detroit, is Chairman of the Educational Forum. He participated in the Forum at the A.N.A.-C.N.A. convention in 1962, speaking on "The Great U. S. Coinage Experiment of 1907," and is currently secretary of the Detroit Coin Club.

kitchen with its great fireplace and collection of utensils, and view many objects used in early nineteenth century Ohio throughout the old two-story frame building. A primitive painting of "The Battle of Lake Erie" hangs on the sitting room wall. Additional articles are being acquired constantly to add to the collections of period furnishings. The Society of Collectors keeps its reference library in an upstairs room, and displays, featuring various collections belonging to Society members, are exhibited and changed monthly.

The address of the old inn, the oldest building still standing in its original state on the grand old roadway, is 6709 Euclid Avenue.

THE CLEVELAND HEALTH MUSEUM, opened in 1940, was the first in the world. In the Euclid Avenue mansion which houses the museum there have been collected exhibits from around the world, showing three-dimensional interpretations of the various organs and systems of the human body.

The most popular features of the Health Museum are Juno, the transparent talking woman which was obtained from Dresden Museum in 1950, and the Wonder of New Life room, telling the story of human reproduction. Juno is located in the center of a small theater, where she explains by means of a recorded voice the organs and systems of the human body which are visible through her transparent plastic skin and indicated by internal lights which flash on in the proper sequence. Other interesting and instructive exhibits cover dental health, the five senses, digestion of food, nutrition, and a variety of temporary exhibits which are changed periodically.

The Health Museum is located at East 89th Street and Euclid Avenue less than a mile west of University Circle.

CLEVELAND – WORLD PORT

In June during the $110,000.00 Cleveland Open, one of the Goodyear blimps docked at the Lakefront airport for the golf festivities. Using the blimp to get an aerial view, Frank Aleksandrowicz, Cleveland Press photographer, took the picture of Cleveland's downtown skyline which is on the outside cover of this Souvenir Program.

Right on the lakefront is the Stadium, home of the American Baseball League Cleveland Indians and the National Football League Cleveland Browns. To the left (east) of the Stadium is the East 9th Street Pier, starting point of the A.N.A. Boat Tour of the Lakefront and Cuyahoga River. The entrance to the river is to the right (west) of the Stadium and our tour boat will go up the curving river to a point behind (south of) the Terminal Tower.

Dominating the skyline is the fifty-two story Terminal Tower, world's tallest building outside of New York city, flanked on the right (west) by our convention hotel, the Sheraton-Cleveland and on the left (east) by Higbee's Department store.

To the left (east) of the East 9th Street pier is Burke-Lakefront airport and between the pier and the airport is the submarine U. S. S. Cod. During the convention the U. S. S. Runner, a snorkel-type submarine from the east coast will also be docked there.

A multi-million-dollar redevelopment project called Erieview, now under construction, features among its many new buildings the nearly completed forty-story office building shown on the back cover just south of the East Ninth Street pier.

Three beautiful open areas in downtown Cleveland are the ten-acre Public Square laid out in 1796 by the city's founder and located in front of the Terminal Tower; the Mall which is the large open park to the south of the stadium and flanked by city and county government buildings and, finally, the Erieview Plaza just in front (west) of the new forty-story office building. As Erieview is further developed there will be additional park areas built into it.
